FOREWORD

Punjab School Education Board has always endeavoured to provide the students with most contemporary and appropriate content through regular review. This book aims to develop four basic skills of English language teaching : Listening, Speaking, Reading and Writing, along with the necessary elements of grammar and vocabulary. The present book has been designed in such a way so as to promote the much-needed skills, along with developing cultural awareness, dictionary skills and promote reading of supplementary materials.

The Punjab School Education Board has been instrumental in providing the best platform for English language teaching to the entire populace of school students. New and updated syllabi has been prepared for classes I to X. New textbooks prepared on the basis of revised syllabi are presently being used by all the schools in Punjab. The book, in hand, is a composite book for Senior Secondary classes XI and XII.

The language teaching for class XI And XII includes course books, ‘The Panorama of Life’ for class XI and ‘A Rainbow of English’ for class XII. Through “English Grammar and Composition for Senior Secondary Classes” we aim to develop the communicative abilities of the students from rural as well urban background. The topics have been carefully chosen to match the interests of the current generation of learners who are globally aware and sufficiently exposed to the contemporary trends. The book covers a wide range of topics from international areas as well as those closer to home. Emphasis has been on providing the students with variety of expressions to use the language as a tool of effective communication in their academic as well as professional field. For practice, the exercises are given at the end of each chapter. This book has been prepared under the guidance of Director Academics, written by Major Pardeep Kumar (Retd.), Recognised Trainer-Department of Personnel and Training, New Delhi (Lecturer English-Govt. Senior Secondary School, Bhim Nagar, Moga). It has been vetted by Mrs. Prabhjot Kaur, Deputy Director SCERT, Punjab.

We would gratefull welcome comments and suggestions from teachers, experts and students as well to improve this books further.

PREFACE

'English Grammar and Composition for Senior Secondary Classes' is intended for students of Senior Secondary Classes. I hope that the learners as well as the teachers find it useful. This book is a comprehensive illustration of various aspects of English grammar in very clear, modern and contemporary English with numerous examples. This book is prepared to help the students to use the language as an effective tool of communication.

This book will cater to the needs of the Senior Secondary school students who pursue their studies in their native language. Grammar and vocabulary items are explained through relevant contexts, rather than in isolation. The tasks and activities are extremely motivational and encouraging, and cater to a mixed ability group of learners. This was done to sensitise our learners as to where they go wrong while using the language. Activities are built in such a way as to encourage real-life use of the language. There are ample numbers of exercises on almost each point discussed and explained. Extensive end-of-chapter exercise sets provide the opportunity to practice style & composition principles and encourage readers to apply them to their own writing.

This book has been an honest effort to come up as a trustworthy friend, who comes to you, sits with you and speaks to you in intimate terms, explains what all you should know to use the language as a natural flow of your thoughts.

I wish to express my gratefulness to the Chairman, Punjab School Education Board, for being a pillar of strength through his consistent motivation and encouragement. I would also thank Mrs. Manjit Kaur, Director Academic, P.S.E.B. Mohali and Mrs. Prabhjot Kaur, Deputy Director, SCERT, Punjab for their valuable guidance and fruitful insights in drafting this book.

I would like to acknowledge the valuable contribution of all members of the Textbook Development Committee and many other teachers for their inputs in the preparation of this grammar.

Suggestions for improvement by large hearted readers and well-wishers shall be gratefully accepted.

PARTS OF SPEECH

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Explain various parts of speech and use them.
- * Noun
- * Pronoun
- * Adjective
- * Verb
- * Preposition
- * Interjection
- * Adverb
- * Conjunction

Words perform different functions in a sentence. They convey different meanings as per their position in the sentence. Based on their use and functions, words are categorised into several types or parts of speech.

- | | | | |
|-----------|----------------|----------------|-----------------|
| 1. Noun | 2. Pronoun | 3. Adjective | 4. Verb |
| 5. Adverb | 6. Preposition | 7. Conjunction | 8. Interjection |

NOUN

Nouns are the simplest among the parts of speech. A Noun refers to words that are used to name persons, things, animals, places, ideas or events. In simple words, nouns are naming words. Manav, boys, class, Chandigarh, cattle, happiness, marriage are examples of nouns. Let us look at some of these for clear understanding.

For Example :

1. Shakespeare was a great dramatist.
The underlined word is a noun that refers to a person.
2. This book is new.
The underlined word is a noun that refers to a thing.
3. Moga is my beloved city.
The underlined word is a noun that refers to a place.

4. Love is the best feeling.

The underlined word is a noun that refers to an idea.

5. Sympathy can be extremely helpful.

The underlined word is a noun that refers to an idea.

6. Lion is the king of the jungle.

The underlined word is a noun that refers to an animal.

7. I celebrated my anniversary.

The underlined word is a noun that refers to an event.

We can categorise nouns as given below:

a. Proper Nouns : They always start with a capital letter and refer to specific names of persons, places, or things.

For Example : The Adi Granth, The Vindhya, Bharat

b. Common Nouns : They are just generic names of persons, things, or places.

For Example : house, school.

c. Concrete Nouns : They refer to nouns which you can perceive through your five senses.

For Example : mud, cement, wood.

d. Abstract Nouns : These are nouns which you can't perceive through your five senses.

For Example : sadness, happiness.

e. Countable Nouns – Anything that is countable, and has a singular and plural form is a countable noun.

For Example : dogs, bats.

f. Uncountable Nouns : Anything that cannot be counted and needs to have 'counters' to quantify it with terms like kilo, cup, meter, etc.

For Example : dust, sand, water, a sack of sand, a pail of water.

g. Collective Nouns : Such nouns refer to a group of persons, animals, or things.

For Example : cluster, class, herd : a class of boys, a herd of cattle, a cluster of stars

PRONOUN

1. Manas is a good athlete. He practises for at least ten hours a day.

2. Simarjit is a good cook. She has also written a recipe book.

In the above sentences, the nouns, 'Manas' and 'Simarjit' are replaced by 'He' and 'She' in the subsequent sentences. These are used in place of the nouns, 'Manas' and 'Simarjit' to avoid repetition. Such words are called pronouns. They are 'Friends of Nouns'. They belong to a sub class of nouns. They define new creations.

Pronouns are of the following types:

1. Personal Pronouns: I, we, you, he, she, it, etc.
2. Indefinite Pronouns: one, someone, somebody, all, etc.
3. Relative Pronouns: who, whom, what, as, that, etc.
4. Demonstrative Pronouns: this, these, those, such, etc.
5. Distributive Pronouns: each, either, neither, etc.
6. Interrogative Pronouns: which, whose, who, etc.

ADJECTIVE

An adjective is a word that is used to qualify or describe a noun or a pronoun. An adjective is descriptive by nature. Adjectives add something to the meaning of a noun or a pronoun. Examples : a red pencil, a blue shirt, a smart boy.

1. It is a red pencil.
2. He is wearing a blue shirt.
3. Harry is a smart boy.

The underlined words are Adjectives.

There are different kinds of adjectives. They express the quality or state of mind of the word they qualify.

- a. Adjectives of Quality : They tell the quality or the state of something they qualify, e.g, nice couple, happy life, fine cloth.
- b. Adjectives of Quantity : They tell us how much of a thing is expressed. e.g, some, much, little, less etc.
Much ado about nothing.
All the fruits were fresh.
- c. Adjectives of Numbers : They tell us how many persons or things are expressed. e.g, many, all, two, three, a few, etc.

A student was writing on the blackboard.

Two monkeys were fighting with each other.

Many girls were playing in the ground.

They are sub divided into:

- (i) Cardinal numbers : Exact numbers like one, two, three etc.
- (ii) Ordinal numbers : They denote ranks or order like first, second, third, etc.
- (iii) Indefinite adjectives : They do not express any exact number; some, any, all, enough, few, no, none etc.

For Example : Enough money was given to the beggar.

All the players applauded their team.

- d. Distributive Adjectives : Express that persons or things denoted by the noun are taken singly or in separate lots, such as: each, every, neither, either etc.

For Example : Each child was given an orange.

Every student had a book in hand.

- e. Demonstrative Adjectives : They are used to point out the persons or things that they qualify, such as: this, that, those, such etc.

For Example : This chair is made of teak wood.

Such elements are harmful for our health.

- f. Interrogative Adjectives : They are used to ask questions, e.g., which, what, whose etc.

For Example : Whose book is that?

Which house is theirs?

Which dress will you wear?

- g. Possessive Adjectives : They indicate possession of a thing or person.

For Example : My story is interesting.

Your shirt is beautiful.

His picture was excellent.

- h. Proper Adjectives : They are derived from proper nouns and always begin with a capital letter, e.g., The African Safari, The English Queen.

For Example : We enjoyed the African Safari in Kenyan jungles.

An Indian writer won the Nobel Prize.

Degrees of comparison :

Adjectives of Quality have three degrees of comparison: positive, comparative and superlative.

Positive : It does not denote any comparison and shows the simple quality.

Comparative : It is used when two things or two groups of things are compared.

Superlative : It is used when one thing is compared with all other things of the same class.

For Example :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
long	longer	longest hot	hotter	hottest
bright	brighter	brightest tall	taller	tallest
cold	colder	coldest

‘Than’ is used with comparative degree of adjective and the article ‘the’ is used with superlative degree of an adjective.

Sindhu is a good badminton player.

Sindhu is better than any other badminton player.

Sindhu is the best badminton player in her age-group.

In some cases, where adjectives have two or more syllables, ‘more’ and ‘most’ are used before the positive degree of adjective to make comparative and superlative degrees of adjective respectively.

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
useful	more useful	most useful
beautiful	more beautiful	most beautiful

For Example : We saw a beautiful movie.

Madhuri Dixit is more beautiful than many other heroines.

Aishwarya Rai is the most beautiful actress these days.

VERB

A verb is a word used to denote an action or being or possession. In simple words, we call them action words.

For Example : He wrote a poem. (action)
 She sang a song. (action)
 Sachin has a hard ball. (possession)
 Arjun is a smart boy. (state of being)

The underlined words are verbs.

They can be categorised into:

1. Transitive Verb : that requires an object to complete its meaning. (Example: She brushes her teeth twice a day.)
2. Intransitive Verb : that has a complete meaning by itself and does not require an object to complete its meaning. (Example: He laughed.)
3. Auxiliary Verbs : They are used with main verbs to form tenses. They are further divided into Primary Auxiliaries and Modal Auxiliaries.

Verbs take different forms when they conjugate. There are two kinds of verbs: Strong verbs and Weak verbs.

Present	Past	Past participle
awake	awoke	awoken
begin	began	begun
buy	bought	bought

ADVERB

1. Shana dances beautifully.
2. Karan speaks Punjabi fluently.
3. She is absolutely beautiful.

The underlined words ‘beautifully’, ‘fluently’ and ‘absolutely’ modify the verbs ‘dance’, ‘speak’ and the adjective ‘beautiful’ respectively. Such words are called Adverbs. They are ‘modifiers’. They modify a verb, an adjective or another adverb. They add depth and intensity to these qualifiers. They not only clarify time, place and manner of the actions but also beautify the quality or intensity of thoughts and actions.

PREPOSITION

Prepositions are relationship words. They are words that are used before a noun or pronoun to show in what relation the person or thing denoted by the noun stands to something else.

For Example : The clock is on the wall.

The train starts at 9.00 a.m.

He was standing under the tree.

The boys were playing in the ground.

The underlined words are Prepositions. They show the relationship between the Nouns used in each sentence.

CONJUNCTION

Conjunctions are linking words. They are used to link words or phrases or sentences together. They are also called joining words or coordinators.

For Example : Pardeep and Sandeep are brothers.

He ran fast but missed the bus.

The child smiled as he saw his mother.

Win or lose.

The underlined words are Conjunctions. They are used to link two nouns or situations.

INTERJECTION

Interjections are 'exclaiming words'. They are used to express a sudden feeling of the mind or certain sounds to express a surprise or sorrow or joy or an unexpected reaction. They are often marked with an exclamation sign, i.e '!'.

For Example : Alas! We lost the match.

Hurrah! I won a lottery.

Bravo! Well played.

The underlined words are Interjections.

DETERMINERS

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Explain what a determiner is
 - * Use-Articles
 - * Possesives
 - * Demonstratives
 - * Numerals
 - * Quantitatives
 - * Qualitatives
- in their written and spoken skills.

Let us read these sentences carefully.

1. He is a teacher.
2. This man is my neighbour.
3. His birthday falls in October.
4. Everybody enjoyed the show.
5. Have you bought any ticket?

In the above sentences, a, this, his, everybody and any are words which modify nouns – teacher, man, birthday, body and ticket. The italicized words are called Determiners.

A determiner is an important noun modifier that provides contexts to a noun generally in terms of quantity and possession. Determiners come before a noun or noun phrase and include articles, demonstrative quantifiers and possessives.

CATEGORIES OF DETERMINERS

Determiners are said to ‘mark’ the nouns. The different categories of determiners are as follows:

Articles: (an, a, the)

Possesives: (his, your, their, my, its, our, her)

Numerals: Definite (one, two, etc.); Indefinite (few, a few, more, many, all, both, some, any etc.) and Distributive (each, every, either, neither etc.)

Interrogatives: which, what, whose.

Demonstratives: (this, that, these, those, such) and

Quantitatives: (many, plenty, whole, complete. enough, little, a little and the little etc.)

A : ARTICLE DETERMINERS

An article is a word that modifies or describes the Noun. It is used before the noun to show whether it refers to something specific or not. So, in a way, articles can also be described as a type of adjectives as they also tell us something about the nouns, like adjectives. These are of two kinds, namely, Indefinite Articles and Definite Articles.

(i) Indefinite Articles: Indefinite means something which is not clear, obvious or exact. They are called indefinite because the identity of the thing or person being spoken about is left unclear or indefinite. The indefinite article indicates that the noun is not someone or something in particular. The speaker talks about any one of that type of things. The indefinite articles in English are ‘a’ and ‘an’. They are Invariable.

A. We use ‘A’ when the next word starts with a consonant sound (Consonant letters in the English alphabet are B, C, D, F, G, H, J, K, L, M, N, P, Q, R, S, T, V, W, X, Y, Z.) or before words that start with u and eu as they sound ‘you’.

Some examples are given below :

a boy, a car, a helicopter, a big elephant, a European, a unit etc.

B. We use ‘An’ when the next word starts with a Vowel sound (Vowel letters in the English alphabet are A, E, I, O, U.) or with a mute h or with a consonant giving the sound of a vowel.

Some examples are given below:

An apple, an egg, an inkpot, an orange, an umbrella, an urgency, an hour, an M.L.A, an M.P. an M.A. an S.D.O. etc.

Note: We use ‘a’ and ‘an’ before a singular noun. We can’t use ‘a’ and ‘an’ before a plural noun because ‘a’ or ‘an’ is the weakened form of one.

Article ‘A’ is used

1. When there are singular nouns beginning with a sound that is not vowel : a boy, a chair, a helicopter, a book, a one eyed person etc.
2. Before words that refer to whole numbers, measures or weights : a kilo, a meter, a pound, a hundred, a half, a litre.

3. In the sense of Any:

A teacher must guide the students. (any teacher)

A child should respect his elders. (any child)

4. When a singular noun is introduced for the first time, as:

I saw a boy in the market.

He met a monk in the temple.

5. Before a proper noun to make it a common noun:

He is a Keats.

She is a second Lata Mangeshkar (a great singer).

6. In exclamatory sentences before singular nouns:

What a great shot!

7. Before persons of a particular profession: a doctor, a painter, a teacher, a dancer, a gardener

8. Before some phrases: a little, a few, a lot of, a small number of

Article ‘An’ is used

1. When there are singular nouns beginning with a vowel sound:

For example : an idiot, an elephant, an owl, etc.

2. When there are singular nouns beginning with a consonant letter but with a vowel sound (here the consonant letters are silent):

For example: silent ‘h’ in an hour, an honest boy or an M.B.A and an M.L.A. an IIT scholar etc.

Note : If noun is modified by an adjective, the choice between ‘a’ and ‘an’ depends upon the initial sound of the adjective that immediately follows the article.

For Example : a nice umbrella an unusual scene

a European country (‘eu’ sounds like a ‘y’)

We also use A/An to indicate membership in a group.

I am a teacher. (I am a member of a large group of professionals known as teachers.)

He is an Indian. (He is one of the people from India known as Indians.)

- (ii) Definite Articles: Definite means to be clear, exact or obvious about something. It is called definite because it is used in relation to a particular thing or person. “The” is the definite article in English, which is used to refer to particular nouns, the identities of which are known. The definite article indicates that the noun is specific. The speaker talks about a particular thing.

For Example : The boy sat on the sofa.

The lion pounced on him and ran away.

Notice how the reference is not left indefinite in both the sentences. It is clear that a particular boy sat on the sofa in the first sentence and a specific lion that attacked some one is being spoken about in the second example.

B. POSSESSIVES OR POSSESSIVE DETERMINERS

These Determiners are the pronouns of possessive case. In English, Possessive pronouns and adjectives are two different ways to show possession. Possessive adjectives go before the noun and Possessive pronouns go after the noun.

Here is a list of the Possessive adjectives and Possessive pronouns correspondingly:

my-mine, your-yours, his-his, her-hers, our-ours, their-theirs and its-its.

For Example : This is my book.

This book is mine.

Is that your cap?

Is that cap yours?

The structure for Possessive pronouns is: Noun + Possessive pronoun.

For Example : This car is mine.

This dog is theirs.

The house is ours.

The structure for Possessive Adjectives is: Possessive Adjective + Noun.

For Example : Your pen is beautiful.

Their mother is a teacher.

His dog is cute.

C. DEMONSTRATIVES OR DEMONSTRATIVE DETERMINERS

This, That, These, Those – are words that are Demonstrative Determiners.

We use ‘this’, ‘that’, ‘these’, or ‘those’ before the noun we are talking about.

The structure of demonstrative determiners: This / that / these / those + noun

For Example : I like this film.

‘This’ modifies the noun, ‘film’. It tells us the film is close to the speaker.

They are also called demonstrative adjectives.

Demonstrative determiner = Demonstrative adjective. These words tell us whether an object is close to us or far away.

Distance

(a) If one is talking about something close to one, use ‘this’ and ‘these’.

This is my book. (The book is close to someone.)

Are these shoes yours? (The shoes are close to someone.)

(b) If you are talking about something farther away, use ‘that’ and ‘those’.

That is my school. (The school is down the street.)

He likes those paintings. (The paintings are over there.)

For small objects and people, use ‘this’ and ‘these’ if they are close enough for you to touch. Use ‘that’ and ‘those’ if you can point to the object or person.

Distance is not just physical distance. We can use ‘this’, ‘that’, ‘these’, and ‘those’ to show distance in time.

We like this movie. (We are watching the film now. It is close in time, so we use ‘this’.)

I liked that movie. (I watched the film last week. It is far away in time, so we use ‘that’.)

Some more examples are:

1. This boy runs very fast.
2. Those girls are beautiful.
3. That building is very old.
4. Those houses are newly constructed.

D. NUMERICAL DETERMINERS

Numerals act as determiners when they appear before a noun. They are of three types.

- (a) Definite Numerals
- (b) Indefinite Numerals
- (c) Distributive Numerals

(a) Definite Numerals are again of two kinds: Cardinals and Ordinals.

Cardinal numerals (one, two, three etc.) express quantity:

one pen

two pens

five books

In the same position, ordinal numerals express sequence:

first prize

second opportunity

third place

These are called general ordinals, and they include last, latter, next, previous, and subsequent. These words also function as determiners:

next day

last words

previous appointment.

(b) Indefinite Numerals : They tell us about indefinite numbers. We use them for indefinite numbers.

For Example : Few, A few, The few, All, Several, Some etc.

- (i) (a) Few (Almost none): The poor beggar had few rupees in his pocket.
- (b) A Few (A small number): Ram has a few rupees to buy his book
- (c) The few (Whatever small number): The few rupees that Ram had, he gave them to the poor beggar.
- (ii) All (All in number): We use it before plural numbers.
I gave him all my books.
All children love to play.
- (iii) Several (More than two but not very many):
Mihir Sen has several firsts to his name.
- (iv) Some (A small number):
We bought some mangoes.
Some children possess a unique memory.
- (v) Both : It applies to only two persons/things; it is used with plural nouns.

For Example : Both the criminals were found guilty.

Both of his sons can dance very well.

(c) Distributive Numerals : We use them for telling about each and every thing of that category.

For Example : Each, every, either, neither etc.

(a) Each : It is used to tell about one of two or more persons or things.

Each participant was given a certificate.

Each subject carries equal weightage.

Each child got a gift.

(b) Every : It is used to tell about numbers exceeding two or the whole.

Every person wants money.

Every man has some good qualities.

(c) Either : Used to convey choice as one of the two.

You can pick either book.

(d) Neither : It is used for negative of the either.

Neither of the boys impressed me.

E. QUANTITATIVE DETERMINERS

They are used to convey 'how much'.

For Example : a little, many, much, some, any, enough, more, less etc.

Little : Used for very small quantity or almost negligible.

There is little hope of his survival after the fatal accident.

A little : A small quantity.

Every child leaves a little milk in the glass.

The little : All of the small quantity that is there.

He gambled the little money he had.

Some : Used with uncountable singular noun or with countable plural nouns and to convey a small quantity. Generally it is used in affirmative sentences.

Any : Used for a small quantity in negative or interrogative sentences.

It is used with words negative in meaning like hardly, without, little, few, only, seldom, difficulty, to fail, to prevent, to avoid.

There are not any good books in this book shop. (Negative)

Is there any doubt in your mind? (Interrogative)

There is hardly any person who dislikes him.

(Means 'No one')

No : It is used for negative expressions with singular or plural nouns, meaning 'not any' or 'nothing of a':

- For Example : I have no enemies.
There is no scope of laxity in this case.
- Enough : It is used to convey the necessary quantity or amount by placing before singular uncountable nouns or plural countable nouns.
For Example : There is enough time.
He has enough money.
- Much : It is used to convey a plenty of, a great deal of or a large quantity of, etc.
It is preferred in negative and interrogative sentences.
He hasn't got much time.
In affirmative sentences, it is used in formal statements.
For Example : Much money is spent on health care.
- More : It is used to convey 'a greater quantity'.
For Example : We must spend more money in creating world class sports facilities.
More working hands will help to achieve the aim faster.
- Less : It is used to convey 'a smaller quantity'.
For Example : He takes less sugar in his tea.
I will take less than five minutes to get ready.
- Interrogative determiners : In addition to the above forms of determiners, we can look at interrogative determiners also to develop a better understanding of determiners.
For Example : What, Whose and Which.
- (a) What : It is used to ask information about something.
What do you want to do in life?
What would you need for the evening function?
What is the time now?
- (b) Whose : It is used to ask about possession.
Whose book is this?

The underlined words express a relationship, usually of space or time, between the words with which they stand. Such 'Positional' words which are used before an object or a person to show their relation with another are known as Prepositions.

KINDS OF PREPOSITIONS

1. Simple Prepositions : These are mostly single syllables.

For Example : in, at, on, by, for, from, till, with, through etc.

2. Compound Prepositions : These are formed by modifying some other words or by prefixing a 'preposition', 'a' or 'be' to different nouns, adjectives or adverbs.

For Example : across, amidst, between, besides, before, below, beneath, into, inside, outside, within, without, etc.

3. Phrase prepositions : These are formed by a group of words that convey a single idea. For example: according to, because of, by means of, for the sake of, in front of, in place of, in spite of, in order to, instead of, due to, on account of, etc.

The best way to learn the correct use of prepositions is by reading, listening, speaking and writing as much as possible. The use of prepositions is not determined by the kinds but by the relation that is to be presented. Keep in mind that same prepositions can be used for expression of different relations.

Prepositions are classified according to their function or the relations expressed through them.

PREPOSITIONS

Time	Position & Direction	Place	Movement	Manner	Agency	Reason	Accompaniment	Material	Possession
------	----------------------	-------	----------	--------	--------	--------	---------------	----------	------------

Let us understand the usage of various prepositions in detail:

MODALS

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Explain different types of Auxiliaries
- * Use modals like—

* Will	* Shall	* Would	* Should	* Can
* Could	* May	* Might	* Dare	* Used to
* Ought to	* Must	* Need

Read the following sentences and observe the verbs carefully.

1. I talked to my friend in English.
2. I was talking to my friend about you.
3. We water the plants everyday.
4. We have watered the plants.

In the above sentences, the verbs talked, talking, water and watered are the Main Verbs or Lexical Verbs. Main Verbs can stand alone, or they can be used with a helping verb.

Each main verb has five forms: the simple form (present tense), the s-form (present tense), the past tense form, the past participle tense form, and the present participle tense form.

For Example : The five forms of the main verb are-go, goes, went, gone and going.

A Main Verb is any verb in a sentence that expresses action or the state of being of the subject in that sentence and it always carries a real meaning.

In the above sentences, the words ‘was’ and ‘have’ are also verbs, but these verbs are the Helping Verbs because they help the Main Verbs. Helping Verbs are called Auxiliaries. They are twelve in number: be, do, have, can, may, shall, will, must, ought, used(to), need, dare.

An Auxiliary is a ‘Helping Verb’. It helps the main verb to form tenses, voices or moods by being placed before them. It also helps in forming Interrogative or Negative Sentences.

Read the following sentence:

I must have been thinking of something else.

In the above sentence, ‘must’, ‘have’ and ‘been’ are Auxiliaries; ‘thinking’ is the Main Verb.

Types of Auxiliaries (Helping Verbs)

There are two types of Auxiliaries:

1. Primary Auxiliaries
2. Modal Auxiliaries

Primary Auxiliaries

There are three Primary Auxiliaries: be, do and have. They change their forms according to the Person or Number of the Subject.

Sr. No.	Primary Auxiliary	Various Forms of Primary Auxiliaries
1	be	is, am, are, was, were, been, being
2	do	do, does, did
3	have	have, has, had

Primary Auxiliaries also known as primary verbs can function as either main verbs or auxiliary verbs.

(i) Primary Auxiliaries as Main Verbs: The primary verbs in the bold function as main verbs because each of them can stand alone and also carry a meaning.

The jug is on the table.

I have a big house.

They do their work honestly.

He had a problem.

She has a car.

I had two balls.

The boys were busy.

I am a teacher.

- (ii) Primary Auxiliaries as Helping Verbs: The primary verbs in the bold function as auxiliary verbs because each of them are helping a main verb. They can neither stand alone nor do they carry any lexical meaning. They carry grammatical meaning only.

She is playing a match.

I am not writing a letter.

I did not hit him.

An apple was eaten by Riya.

Are the boys being punished by the teacher?

Has this picture been painted by you?

Modal Auxiliaries

Read the following sentences carefully :

(i) He can drive a car. ('can' shows ability)

(ii) The rich should help the poor. ('should' shows moral obligation)

(iii) It may rain today. ('may' shows possibility)

In the above sentences, 'drive', 'help' and 'rain' are Main Verbs whereas 'Can' 'Should' and 'May' are Helping Verbs that denote particular moods, expressions or conceptions of the mind. Here 'can' 'should' and 'may' express 'ability', 'moral obligation' and 'possibility' respectively. Since these auxiliaries denote some particular moods or expressions, they are called Modal Auxiliaries.

A Modal Auxiliary is a special auxiliary which is used to denote a particular mood or expression of the subject.

Some Important Rules about Modal Auxiliaries :

1. Modals can never stand alone. They are always used to help a main verb.

For Example : I must leave soon. (Main verb is 'leave' and it is helped by the auxiliary verb, 'must')

He can drive a car. (Main verb is 'drive' and it is helped by the auxiliary verb, 'can'.)

2. Modals can't be used as main verbs except in a few cases.

For Example : I will you. ('Will' alone does not carry any lexical meaning. Therefore, this sentence is meaningless.)

I will invite you. (In this sentence, 'invite' is the main verb, here and it is helped by the auxiliary verb, 'will'. The sentence, so formed, is meaningful.)

3. Modals don't have infinitive, present participle or past participle forms. For example, we never use 'to should, 'musting' or 'canned'.
4. Modals are always followed by the base form (root form or the first form) of a main verb.

For Example : They must attend their classes.

I can solve this sum.

5. Modals can't be used in all the verb tenses.

For Example : In some tenses, we use, 'be able to' instead of 'can' to express ability.

(a) I will can do that. (incorrect)

I will be able to do that. (Correct)

(b) I have canned do that. (Incorrect)

(c) I have been able to do that. (correct)

6. When a Modal is followed by 'be' + Present Participle form of the verb, this indicates that one is talking about the present or the future.

For Example : He may be watching a movie.

The play will be starting soon.

7. When a Modal is followed by have + Past Participle, this indicates that one is talking about the Past.

For Example : You must have informed us.

She may have already left.

8. In Passive sentences, the pattern is:

Modal + be + Past Participle Form or,

Modal + have been + Past Participle Form

For Example : His statement will be published soon.

Such changes may have been justified.

9. Modals do not inflect. They do not have any '-s' form, '-ing' form or '-ed' form.
10. Modals do not take any primary auxiliary to form negative sentences. To form negative sentences, the article 'not' is added after the modal.

For Example : He should not talk rudely.

11. Questions are formed by placing the modal before the Subject. In case of ought to, 'ought' is placed before the subject and 'to' after it.

For Example : Would you please lend me your book?

Ought we to support them?

12. Modals are used in Question Tags:

For Example : She can't drive a car, can she?

He could not solve the sum, could he?

13. There are 13 Modal Auxiliaries: will, would, shall, should, can, could, may, might, used to, ought to, must, dare and need.

14. 'Need' and 'Dare' can also be used as main verbs.

(1) Use of 'Will'

Will is used :

1. To indicate simple futurity or simple future plan when the subject is Pronoun of the second or third person:

For Example : My friend will come tomorrow.

You will go to school at 7 a.m.

2. To indicate prediction:

For Example : It will rain tomorrow.

3. To express future intentions that are decided at the time of speaking (offer, promise, decision, determination, threat, willingness) when the subject is Pronoun of the First Person:

For Example : Since you are very tired, I will do the dishes. (Offer)

I will lend you some money. (Promise)

I will wear my orange shirt. (Decision)

I will complete the task by 6 p.m. (Determination)

I will teach you a lesson. (Threat)

I will do the washing-up. (Willingness)

4. To express a request, invitation or order in yes/no question with 'you' as subject:

For Example : Will you please accompany me home? (Request)

Will you shut up? (Order)

Will you have a cup of tea? (Invitation)

Will you stop picking your nails! (Command)

(2) Use of 'Shall'

1. To express futurity or simple future plan when the subject is Pronoun of the First Person.

For Example : I shall meet you tomorrow.

We shall go for a picnic next week.

2. To make offer/suggestion (in yes/no question with I/we as subject):

For Example : Shall we play cards? (Suggestion)

Shall I open the door? (Offer)

What shall I do next? (Suggestion)

3. To express command, compulsion, legal obligation, prohibition, threat, promise when the Subject is the Second or Third Person Pronoun:

For Example : He shall do the job. (Command)

The students shall attend the class. (Compulsion)

The people shall submit their Income Tax Return before the end of March. (Legal obligation)

You shall not smoke here. (Prohibition)

If you make a noise, you shall be punished. (Threat)

He shall be rewarded for his act of bravery. (Promise)

Important Notes:

- (i) In Interrogative Sentences, will is never used with the First Person (I/We)
- (ii) Will/shall are not used in clauses beginning with 'if' or 'when'.

For Example : If I will go to Delhi, I will visit the Red Fort. (Incorrect)

If I go to Delhi, I will visit the Red Fort. (Correct)

When he will return, I will serve him dinner. (Incorrect)

When he returns, I will serve him dinner. (Correct)

Will I make a cup of tea for you? (Incorrect)

Shall I make a cup tea for you? (Correct)

USE OF NON-FINITES (INFINITIVES, GERUNDS AND PARTICIPLES)

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Explain what is a finite verb and non-finite verb.
- * Use Infinitives, Gerunds and Participles

What is a Verb?

A Verb is a word or a group of words that expresses an action or occurrence, and forms the main part of the predicate of a sentence.

For Example :

- (i) Ram writes poems. (action)
- (ii) The child felt happy. (feeling)
- (iii) Ashoka was a great king. (existence)

A verb has two aspects:

- (i) Finite verb (ii) Non-Finite Verb

Finite Verb :

Look at the following sentences :

- (i) A girl loves dolls. (singular subject + singular verb)
- (ii) Girls love dolls. (plural subject+ plural verb)
- (iii) They play football every day.
- (iv) They played football yesterday.

We find that the verbs ‘loves’, and ‘love’, in the above sentences, are governed by the subjects ‘a girl’ and ‘girls’ respectively, and the verbs ‘play’ and ‘played’ are governed by tenses. In simple words, a change in the subject and tense has led to a change in the form of the verb.

Thus, we can conclude that a finite verb is a form of verb that (a) shows agreement with a subject and (b) is marked for tense.

A finite verb can be transitive or intransitive.

For Example :

- (i) We drink milk.
- (ii) They play chess.

In the above sentences, the action denoted by the verb, 'drink' passes over to the object, 'milk' and the action denoted by the verb, 'play' passes over to the object, 'chess'. The verbs in these examples are Transitive Verbs, as they transit or pass over the action from the 'subject' to the 'object'. A transitive verb is the one that has some object. This means the action denoted by the verb passes over from the subject to the object.

Consider the following:

- We drink slowly.
- They play in the fields.

In the above sentences, the verbs 'drink' and 'play' have no objects. Therefore, the actions denoted by the verbs, drink and play do not pass over to any subject. Such verbs are called Intransitive Verbs.

Non-Finite Verb

Consider the following sentences:

- The player wants to win the match.
- All the players want to win the match.
- We want to help them.
- We wanted to help them

Here the verbs 'win' and 'want' are not governed by the change in number or person of the subject or any change in the tense. Such verbs that are not changed despite the change of the subject and the tense are called Non-Finite Verbs.

Non-Finites are of three types:

- (i) Infinitives
- (ii) Gerunds
- (iii) Participles.

Now, we shall study these three types of non-finite verbs closely.

Infinitive

An infinitive is the base form of the verb (i.e. the first form of the verb) which is not governed by any subject or tense and does the work of a Noun, Adjective or Adverb in a sentence.

For Example : He wants to win her heart at any cost.

Here the verb 'to win' is an infinitive.

There are two kinds of infinitives.

- (i) To-infinitive
- (ii) Bare Infinitive

(i) To-infinitive

This form of infinitive is preceded by 'to' and consists of two words, to + base form of the verb.

For Example : I want to get a scholarship.

Here the verb 'to get' is To- Infinitive.

Uses of to- infinitive

The to-infinitive is used:

1. As Noun Infinitive

(a) It is used as the Subject of a Verb

For Example :

- (i) To err is human.
- (ii) To pity is divine.
- (iii) To find fault is easy.

Here To err, To forgive, To find fault are used as subjects to the verb, 'is' in each of these sentences.

(b) As Object of the Verb

For Example :

- (i) I do not like to cry.
- (ii) We hope to start tomorrow.
- (iii) She began to tell a story.
- (iv) I want to buy a new car.
- (v) He promised to help me.

Here to cry, to start, to tell, to buy and to help are used as objects to the verbs 'like', 'hope', 'began', 'want' and 'promised' respectively.

(c) As the Complement of a Linking Verb

For Example :

- (i) His greatest asset is to dance.
- (ii) His aim is to become a great dancer.

- (iii) Her real aim is to win the match.
- (iv) Her hobby is to make friends with new people.

(d) As the object of a Preposition

For Example :

- (i) The poor beggar is about to collapse.
- (ii) The enemy had no option but to surrender.
- (iii) The match was about to finish.
- (iv) The show is likely to start.
- (v) The boss is about to reach.

(e) In Apposition to the Pronoun 'it'

For Example :

- (i) It is our duty to serve our nation.
- (ii) It is difficult to make everyone happy.
- (iii) It is an honour to serve our motherland.
- (iv) It is easy to find fault in others.
- (v) It is a pleasure to host the party.

2. After the verbs like know, learn, discover, when, who, how, etc.

For Example :

- (i) I know how to sing.
- (ii) I wonder who to invite.
- (iii) Show me how to do it.
- (iv) He knows how to drive a car.
- (v) We don't learn when to say no.

3. Infinitive of purpose

- (ii) We went to see him
- (iii) We play to enjoy the game.
- (iv) Give me a book to read.

- (ii) The boss likes to be respected.
- (iii) Girls like to be treated like a queen.

(iv) He wanted to be honoured by the chief guest.

(v) Everyone wants to be appreciated.

5. As Gerundial Infinitive

(a) It modifies verbs like an adverb.

For Example :

(i) We play to win.

(ii) He came to meet me.

(iii) We went to congratulate him.

(iv) They fought to defeat the enemy.

(v) I gave him a book to read.

(b) It qualifies an adjective.

(iii) She is ready to work hard.

(iv) They were eager to learn new tricks.

(iii) To be sure, he evaluated the answer-sheet twice.

(iv) To be honest, he is trustworthy.

(v) To be frank, I have done my duty.

(d) As an adjective, it qualifies a noun.

For Example :

(ii) He is the player to appreciate.

(iii) Morning is not the time to sleep.

(iv) Sachin is the player to watch.

(v) Singing is the art to emulate.

6. After 'too' and enough'

For Example :

- (i) He is too smart to understand your trick.
- (ii) The bag was too big to carry.
- (iii) He is too weak to run.
- (iv) This dress is too dirty to wear.
- (v) I am strong enough to carry this bag.

TRANSFORMATION OF SENTENCES

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Explain kinds of Sentences
- * Transform Single Sentences to Compound and Complex Sentences
- * Transform complex sentences to compound & simple sentences
- * Understand the use and Removal of 'Too' in sentences.

Transformation of a sentence means changing the words or form of the sentence without changing its meaning (or sense). Such changes can be in the form of changes from negative sentences into assertive, interrogative or exclamatory sentences and vice versa or change in narration or change in voice or changes from simple to compound or complex sentences etc.

What is a Sentence?

While speaking or writing, we use words. We generally use these words in groups as—

- (i) Parth is a nice boy.
- (ii) Lions roar.
- (iii) He goes to school every day.
- (iv) Do not tell a lie.

Each of the above group of words makes complete sense.

Thus, a group of words that makes complete sense or meaning is called a Sentence.

A sentence has a subject and a predicate. (The Subject is the part of the sentence that denotes the person or thing about which something is said and the Predicate is that part of the sentence that says something about the person or the thing denoted by the 'Subject'.)

Note : A group of words that forms part of a sentence, and has its own subject and its own predicate is known as a Clause. A sentence may have one or many clauses in it.

On this basis, we find different kinds of sentences.

Kinds of Sentences

1. Simple Sentence
2. Compound Sentence
3. Complex Sentence

1. A Simple sentence is that which has one finite verb and has only a single independent clause and no dependent clause.

For Example :

- (i) Children are playing.
- (ii) Ram gave him a gift.
- (iii) Shiva dances.
- (iv) The Principal pardoned the naughty boys.
- (v) He must run fast to catch the train.

2. A Compound Sentence is one that has at least two independent clauses that have related ideas. The independent clauses are joined by a coordinating conjunction (and, but, for, nor, or, yet, therefore, so, either, or, neither, nor, not only...but also)

For Example :

- (i) We went to Delhi and saw the Red Fort.
- (ii) She worked hard yet could not succeed.
- (iii) We must run or we can't catch the train.
- (iv) Life is short, still we love it.

Each of the above sentences has two finite verbs in it. Each sentence has two independent clauses which are joined by a coordinating conjunction.

2. A Complex sentence is the one that has one main clause and one or more subordinating clauses. In such sentence, the main clause makes complete sense on its own, whereas the subordinating clause does not convey a complete meaning on its own and depends upon the main clause for making complete sense.

For Example :

- (i) He saw a man who was very tall.
- (ii) Unless he stops, he can't pass the baton.
- (iii) He says that he will reach in time.
- (iv) The player who scored the goal has gone out of the ground.

We use the following conjunctions in complex sentences.

who, whom, where, which, when, whose, what, how, that, if/whether, unless, than, while, till, until, before, why, even if, because, wherever, as though, although _____ yet, as, since, so _____ that, lest _____ should, such _____ that etc.

There are mainly three kinds of Subordinate Clauses, namely:

- (i) Noun clause
- (ii) Adjective clause
- (iii) Adverb clause

Let us examine them briefly:

A. Noun Clause

It is a group of words that does the function of a noun. It has a subject and a predicate of its own and it forms part of a larger sentence.

A Noun clause generally begins with subordinating conjunctions and indefinite relative pronouns such as; what, where, why, when, which, how, that, if, whether, etc.

CHANGE OF VOICE

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Explain and use the sentences in active and passive form.
- * Transform sentences from active to passive and vice versa.

CHANGE OF VOICE

The voice of a verb tells whether the subject of the sentence performs or receives the action.

When a verb represents a person or a thing as doing something, it is said to be in Active Voice. In most English sentences with an action verb, the subject performs the action denoted by the verb. So, when we express an idea giving importance to the doer, the sentence is written in the active form.

Structure of active voice : Subject + verb + object.

For Example : I do the work.

It means that the ‘doer of the action’ is active.

For Example : Harry won the prize.

Sonam sang a song.

These examples show that the subject is doing the action. The subject does or “acts upon” the verb in such sentences so, the sentences are said to be in the active voice.

On the other hand, when a verb represents a person or thing being acted upon, it is said to be in Passive Voice. When we express an idea giving importance to the action rather than to the doer, the sentence is written in the passive form.

Structure of Passive Voice : Object + be verb + verb as past participle + by + subject.

For Example : The work is done by me.

It means that the ‘doer of the action’ is not active but passive.

For Example : The prize was won by Harry.

A song was sung by Sonam.

Generally, the passive is preferred when the doer of an action is unknown.

For Example : The bridge is being repaired.

The prizes have been announced.

The thief was caught.

Points to remember : There are many sentences in Active Voice that cannot be changed into passive or vice versa.

Rules for Change of Voice

Important rules for change of Voice from Active Voice to the Passive Voice are as follows :

Active Voice	Passive Voice
In active voice, the verb is controlled by the subject.	In passive voice, the verb is controlled by the object
The object in the active voice becomes the subject in the passive voice.	Only the past-participle of the main verb is used in the passive voice (along with the helping verb).

In Active Voice, the verb agrees with the subject. It means the subject is active.

In Passive Voice, the verb agrees with the object. It means the subject is passive.

Some Common Rules for Active and Passive Voice

Pronouns get changed when they change their positions in the following way:

I ↔ Me	;	We ↔ Us
You ↔ You	;	He ↔ Him
She ↔ Her	;	It ↔ It
They ↔ Them

Only third form of Verb is used in Passive Constructions.

For Example : I. They understand me very well. (Active Voice)

II. He understands me very well. (Active Voice)

In the example-I, the subject is in plural form (they). So, the verb (understand) is used in accordance with that.

But in the example-II, the subject is in singular form (he). So, the verb (understands) is used in accordance with that.

Let us see the Passive voices of these sentences

For Example : (i) I am understood very well by them.

(ii) I am understood very well by him.

In both these sentences, the verbs are modified only by the singular Pronoun “I”, not by the subjects of the sentences.

The gardener waters the plants. (Active Voice)

The plants are watered by the gardener. (Passive Voice)

CHANGE OF NARRATION

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Know what is Direct and Indirect Speech.
 - * Transform the sentences from Direct to Indirect Speech.
 - * Transform the sentences from Indirect to Direct Speech.

Look at the following picture and read the sentences given below :

1. The teacher said to the students, “Welcome back to school.”
2. The teacher welcomed the students back to school.

The act of reporting a person's speech is called Narration. There are two ways of narrating a person's speech :

Direct Speech : In Direct Speech, the actual words spoken by a person are quoted within inverted commas (“.....”). In the first sentence below the picture, the actual words spoken by the teacher are quoted without any change.

Indirect Speech : In Indirect Speech, the gist/meaning/matter of the speaker's words is conveyed without quoting the actual words. In the second sentence below the picture, the meaning of the teacher's words is conveyed without quoting her actual words.

Components of Direct Speech : There are two parts of Direct Speech

- (i) Reporting Verb : The part of the sentence outside the inverted commas is called Reporting Speech. It is generally termed as Reporting Verb. It has three parts : Subject, Reporting Verb and Object. In certain cases, the object may be missing.
- (ii) Reported Speech : The part of the sentence enclosed within the inverted commas is called the Reported Speech. A Reported Speech also has a Subject and a Verb with other extensions (other parts of speech).

Read the sentence given below and study its structure:

Direct : She said to me, “I am going to Delhi.”

Direct : Reporting Verb, “Reported Speech.”

Direct : (She) (said) (to me), “I am going to Delhi.”

Direct : (Subject) (Reporting Verb) (Object), “Subject and Verb of Reported Speech (with other extensions).”

Components of the Indirect Speech : The Indirect Speech is a Complex Sentence made of a Principal Clause (Reporting Speech) and a Subordinate Clause (Reported Speech), generally joined by a conjunction. Look at the following example :

She told me that she was going to Delhi. (Indirect Speech)

(Principal Clause) Conjunction (Subordinate Clause)

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN DIRECT AND INDIRECT SPEECH

Direct Speech	Indirect Speech
Actual words of the speaker are quoted in inverted commas. There are two parts : Reporting Verb and Reported Speech. Reporting Verb and Reported Speech are separated by comma. Reported Speech is enclosed within inverted commas. Reported Speech in inverted commas starts with a capital letter. There is no use of Conjunction, as Reporting Verb and Reported Speech are separated by a comma and inverted commas.	Actual words of the speaker are not quoted. The meaning or matter of the reported speech is conveyed indirectly. There is one complex sentence with a Principal Clause and a Subordinate Clause. There is no use of comma to separate Reporting Verb and Reported Speech. Inverted commas are removed. Reported speech becomes the subordinate clause of a Complex Sentence. Hence, it starts with a small letter. In most of the cases, Reported speech is introduced by a conjunction.

GENERAL RULES FOR CHANGING DIRECT SPEECH INTO INDIRECT SPEECH

Important Note : General rules are those rules which are always followed while changing Direct Speech into Indirect Speech. Both General and Specific Rules must be followed while changing Direct Speech into Indirect Speech. The specific rules are related to types of sentences. These rules are discussed further in this chapter.

Rule-I : Inverted commas are removed.

Rule-II : Look at the tense of the reporting verb.

- (a) If the tense of Reporting Verb in Direct Speech is Present or Future

Tense, there will be no change in the tense of the Reported Speech while changing the Direct Speech into Indirect Speech.

For Example :

Direct : The teacher says to the students, “I have corrected your notebooks.”

Indirect : The teacher tells the students that she has corrected their notebooks.

- (b) If the tense of Reporting Verb in Direct Speech is Past Tense, follow the rules regarding the change of tense discussed later in this chapter.

Rule-III : Rules regarding the change in Personal Pronouns

Important Note : While changing the Personal Pronouns, the Gender and Case of the Personal Pronouns should be kept the same. Study the table given below.

Personal Pronouns	Nominative Case	Accusative Case	Possessive Case
First Person	I, we	me, us	my, mine, our, ours
Second Person	You, thou	you, thee	your, yours, thine
Third person	he, she, it, they	him, her, it, them	his, her, hers, its, their, theirs

- (i) Pronouns of the First Person in the Reported Speech change according to the Subject of the Reporting Verb. The case will remain the same.

Direct : My sister said to me, “I don’t want to waste my time”.

My sister (Subject, Third Person) said to me, “I (First person, Nominative Case) don’t want to waste my (First Person, Possessive Case) time.”

Indirect : My sister told me that she (Third person, Nominative Case) did not want to waste her (Third Person, Possessive Case) time.

- (ii) Pronouns of the Second Person in the Reported Speech change according to the Object of the Reporting Verb. The case will remain the same.

For Example :

Direct : I said to her, “You should do your work.”

I said to her (Object, Third Person), “You (Second person, Nominative Case) should do your (Second Person, Possessive Case) work.”

Indirect : I advised her that she (Third Person, Nominative Case) should do her (Third Person, Possessive Case) work.

(iii) Pronouns of the Third Person in the Reported Speech remain unchanged.

For Example :

Direct : Asha said to me, “He (Third Person) is wasting his (Third Person) time.”

Indirect : Asha told me that he (Third Person) was wasting his (Third Person) time.

The following table will help the learners to learn the rules of Pronouns :

Reporting Verb	S	O	N
Reported Speech	I	II	III

Here : S = Subject

I = First Person

O = Object

II = Second Person

N = No change

III = Third Person

Rule- IV : Subject-verb agreement must be followed when Pronoun or Tense in the Reported Speech is changed.

For Example :

Direct : I say to my friend, “You are very hard-working.”

Indirect : I tell my friend that he is very hard-working.

Direct : I said to my friend, “You are very hard-working.”

Indirect : I told my friend that he was very hard-working.

Rule-V : A conjunction is used to introduce the Reported Speech. The use of conjunction depends on the type of sentence of the Reported Speech. The following table will elaborate this concept.

Type of Sentence in Reported Speech	Conjunction Used to join Reporting Verb and Reported Speech
Assertive Sentences (Affirmative and Negative)	that
Interrogative Sentences (Single)	if/whether
Interrogative Sentences (Double : with Wh-words)	Wh-word used in the Reported Speech
Imperative Sentences	Infinitive with to/that
Exclamatory Sentences	that
Optative Sentences	that

Rule-VI : The tense of Reporting Verb remains the same. If the Reporting Verb is ‘say’, ‘says’, ‘will say’, or ‘said’ it remains the same. If Reporting Verb is followed by ‘to’ and an object, there will be the following changes in the Reporting Verbs if the Reported Speech is an Assertive Sentence.

For Examples :

say to him	tell him
says to me	tells me
will say to her	will tell her
said to you	told you

RULES REGARDING THE CHANGE IN TENSE

Rule-I : If the Reporting Verb is in Present Tense or Future Tense, there will be no change in the tense of the Reported Speech.

Direct : He says to me, “I am studying here.”

Indirect : He tells me that he is studying here.

Rule-V : Change of Modal Auxiliaries ‘Need’ and ‘Dare’ : ‘Dare’ and ‘Need’ are used as a semi modal verb. ‘Dare’ means to have the courage to do something. Both are mostly used negatively.

For Example :

NOTICE WRITING

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

Write notices of different kinds

- * School/Educational Notice
- * Public Notice
- * Tender/Auction Notice

A notice is a very short piece of writing which is usually formal in style. It is meant to provide integrated and useful information, to issue public instructions, to make appeals or issue warning about the events that have happened or are about to happen. Notices are supposed to be pinned up or pasted on notice boards meant for this purpose only. There can be one or more notice boards in a school or an organization for everyone to read.

How to write a Notice :

Notice writing is an art that requires practice to be effective. There are some important points to be kept in mind while writing a notice:

1. The complete Notice must be placed within a 'Box'.
2. A well-written Notice must inform the readers about the 5 W's:
 - What is going to happen (that is, the event)
 - Where it will take place (Place of action, if any)
 - When it will take place (that is, the date and time)
 - Who can apply or is eligible for it (for whom)
 - Whom to contact or apply to (that is, the issuing authority).
3. The heading 'Notice' to make it very clear.
4. Only the most important points should be written.
5. The sentences should be short and grammatically accurate. These should be in the passive voice as far as possible.
6. The word limit for a notice is 40-50 words (only the words in the body of the notice are counted).

7. Bold letters, catchy slogans, striking words and phrases should be used to increase the visual appeal of the notice.
8. Standard abbreviations are allowed.

Format of Notice writing :

A notice has a specific format. It should be written in the following format:

1. Name of the Organisation followed by the Title 'Notice.'
2. Purpose of the notice.
3. Date
4. Body of the notice- essential information including time, place, and contact details
5. Writer's signature- Name in Block letters with designation.

NOTE MAKING

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Explain what is Note Making
- * Learn and use about various steps while making notes.
- * Learn use of abbreviations in the Notes

A note is a brief record of information or ideas. It is useful as an aid to memory to remember the important points, to prepare for an exam, to be used in a discussion, to be used in a debate or a lecture or a speech delivery.

Note making is a skill. In the present competitive world, we read or listen to numerous kind of information. It is not easy or possible to keep everything stored in mind, so it is, indeed, important that we develop the habit of noting down relevant information or details in a concise form i.e in the form of notes.

It is always helpful to compress a large piece of information into a brief, organized and summarised form that can be used as a reference as and when to be used for different purposes.

Note making is an activity that combines many skills. It can be mastered with practice. We need to remember the following features while making notes :

1. Notes should be brief.
2. Notes should be written in third person.
3. Only important details should be included in notes.
4. No illustrations, long explanations or diagrams should be included in the notes.

Note making helps us to :

- Remember important details.
- Refresh our memory.
- Prepare for our exams.
- Plan essays, speeches, lectures
- And participate in discussions, debates

5. No full sentences, only phrases or words to be used.
6. Logical sequence of information should be presented.

There is a format that we can follow while making notes:

- ✓ Notes may be divided into Main Headings, Sub headings and sub-sub headings.
- ✓ Title or Heading may be used for main heading. (Title/Main Heading should tell us what the main idea of the passage is?)
- ✓ Main heading may be represented with numbers such as 1,2,3 etc.
- ✓ Sub headings can be represented by alphabets such as a. b. c etc. (There can be two or three sub headings.)
- ✓ Sub-sub headings can be represented by numbers such as i, ii, iii etc.

Title (In Block Letters)
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Main Heading (Underline it) <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Sub Heading <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (i) Sub-sub heading (ii) Sub-sub heading 2. Main Heading <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (a) Sub heading <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (i) Sub-sub heading (b) Sub-heading <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (i) Sub-sub heading (ii) Sub-sub heading

To make the notes brief and condensed, the following points may kept in mind.

1. Use of abbreviations and commonly used symbols.

Words	Abbreviation/ Symbol	Words	Abbreviation/ Symbol
Major	Maj.	Colonel	Col.
Professor	Prof.	Engineer	Er.
Mister	Mr.	For example	e.g.

By the hundred	Percent	Greenwich Mean Time	G.M.T.
Positive	+ve	American Dollar	$
And	&	Pound	£
Family	fmly	Etcetra	Etc.
		Aviation	Avt.

2. Some innovative abbreviations can be used.

For Example : Programme-Pgme, Principal-pr. ; Secondary-Sec.
Educational-Edu'nal

3. Avoid irrelevant details.
4. Use alternative words for longer words.

Note making is a useful skill. It should be developed with consistent practice. Notes are useful for students in school/board examinations.

Some of the steps to be followed while making notes are as given:

1. Read the passage carefully.
2. Try to understand the theme and subject of the passage.
3. Try to find the answer to questions as 'What is this passage about?' and try to get the gist.
4. Identify main ideas and important supporting details.
5. Give heading and sub heading and sub-points.
6. Use proper layout/ format.
7. Use recognizable abbreviations wherever possible.

SAMPLE PASSAGES

1. Read the following passage carefully and make notes using suitable abbreviations.

The concept of disposal of Plastic waste is becoming outdated with time since disposal cannot be a good option in the long run and requires lots of remedial measures to be taken; hence it is preferable to reuse the plastic. Gasification refers to thermal decomposition of plastic matter under inert atmospheric conditions with limited supply of air. To gasify PVC/chlorinated plastic, gasification should be carried out at lower temperature to remove chlorine subsequently, the temperature must be raised. However, there are problems in controlling the combustion temperature and quantity of unburned gases. Though recycling is a good option, still it does not offer a complete solution for managing plastic waste. In India, about 40% of the plastic waste is recycled yet there are many problems associated with recycling of plastic waste. Firstly, recycling can be done twice at the most; after the third/fourth recycling the plastic is totally unfit for reuse and ultimately ends up in land filling.

Secondly, sorting the plastic is difficult as well as expensive proposition. Plastics contain a wide range of fillers and additives and often they are associated with metal, glass etc.

 - (a) Gasification
 - (i) Gasify PVC/chlorinated plastic at lower temperature

2. Read the following passage carefully and make notes using suitable abbreviations.

Located at the NASA Research Center, in Iowa is a 5000-gallon vat of water tank, and inside the tank is an underwater treadmill designed by Dava Newman, an aerospace Er. For four years, Newman observed scuba divers as they simulated walking on the Moon and on Mars on her underwater moving belt. She wanted to discover how the gravity of the Moon and of Mars would affect human movement. To do this, Newman attached weights to the divers and then lowered them into the tank and onto the treadmill. These weights were carefully adjusted so that divers could experience the underwater gravity of the Moon and of Mars as they walked on the treadmill. Newman concluded that walking on Mars will probably be easier than walking on the Moon. The Moon has less gravity than Mars does, so at Lunar gravity, the divers struggled to keep their balance and walked awkwardly. But at Martian gravity, the divers had greater traction and stability and could easily adjust to a pace of 1.5 mph. As Newman gradually increased the speed of the treadmill, the divers took longer graceful strides until they comfortably settled into an even qukr. pace. Newman also noted that at Martian gravity, the divers needed less oxygen.

Title: Newman's Experiments of Gravity on Moon and Mars.

1. Newman observed Scuba divers
 - (a) Scuba divers simulation
 - (b) Effect of gravity on human movement

3. Read the following passage carefully and make notes using suitable abbreviations.

Pollution and other environmental problems are often considered to be the direct result of a country's development. Industrialization, growing number of factories, people's capability of purchasing more vehicles and electronic devices etc. are often related to the economic condition and growth of a nation. These factors are responsible for raising the level of pollution.

Firstly, it is a matter of fact that pollution and environmental problems are more prominent in poor countries than in the rich countries. Air, sound and water pollution in countries like India and Bangladesh is far dangerous than in developed countries like Australia, Canada and the UK. Furthermore, the number of factories does not represent the amount of pollution it causes. For instance, recent researches have made it clear that only a few garment factories in a country like Bangladesh cause far more damage to the air and water resources than hundreds of bigger industries do in the United States.

Secondly, economic development does not mean that a country will have industries and factories all over the country. Proper planning and inspection from the government can ensure the minimal emission of gas and other toxic elements into the water and air. For instance, industrialization does not cause as much deforestation as does human greed, lack of monitoring and implementation of laws in many countries.

Finally, pollution is a global issue and proper laws and their enforcement laws can reduce it to a great extent. We cannot stop the natural causes of pollution but greater percentage of environmental pollution is caused by the human actions. Planting trees is the best solution for air pollution, as it reduces the carbon ratio in the air and releases oxygen. Furthermore, reduced usage of fossil fuels also helps to mitigate the air pollution. The government should educate and encourage people to use alternative sources of energy and help people to recycle and reuse the products.

4. Read the following passage carefully and make notes using suitable abbreviations.

Child abuse may be defined as any attempt or action to harm a child by the near ones. It is often done by parents, teachers and the elders or those who are closely related to the child. Abuse, on the other hand, is any non-accidental physical attack or injury to children by the individuals caring for them. In simple words, it can be beating, maltreatment and severe punishment to a child. Physical abuse is extremely dangerous to the child and can result in permanent physical and mental disabilities.

Abuse appears in families for many different reasons. One reason for abuse and neglect by parents is that they do not understand the needs of their children. Another cause for abuse and neglect is poverty. It is noticed that in poor families, parents tend to care less for their children. Cases of child abuse increase a lot in case the parent, especially the father, loses a job. In such cases, children become the medium through which the parent release their angry feelings. Besides, if parents are addicted to drugs or alcohol, the chances of child abuse and neglect become very high.

To protect the child from such an abuse, we need a decisive set of laws that protect the rights of the child inside the family. Abusive parents must be punished. There should be a helpline where the kids can report to protect themselves. If no such helpline exists, children will be abused in silence, and all the laws to prevent child abuse will not have any value. The helpline can be used by kids, teachers and even the neighbours, if they notice any sufferer nearby.

Public awareness is also very important to prevent the problem of child abuse. The only way to do so is to establish specialized agencies for the protection of child rights, and to educate the public about their obligations towards these agencies and the children of the community. The role of media is most important in educating parents to protect their kids from child abuse. It is better to start education on child abuse in school programmes.

1. Child abuse
 - (a) Agents : close or first relations
 - (b) Effects of child abuse: leads to disabilities
2. Causes of child abuse
 - (a) (i) Parents' neglect: needs of children misunderstood, poverty, jobless parents

 - (b) Children serve as vents for parents' anger
3. Protection of kids

5. Read the following passage carefully and make notes using suitable abbreviations.

English has become the default global language. Someone who speaks English can travel all over the world without experiencing any difficulties. English is also the language of business and science. Scientists from all over the world are publishing their studies and papers in English and thus their research is reaching most people around the globe. Almost all journal articles, conference papers and even human case studies are in English. Therefore, these merits validate the importance of the English language.

Hordes of students migrate abroad for higher studies. English is the most preferred language in which they continue their studies. Most of the countries have set English language benchmarks for different educational courses. To attain these language levels, students have to appear in different, internationally accepted, language testing systems. The use of English as the global language in the fields such as business, university studies, and research has improved the communication and exchange of information. Trade transactions among business entities from different lands have been empowered by this Shakespearean language settled as the primary language in this sector.

People in some countries find learning English to be extremely difficult because of the extreme differences in written expression. For example, each symbol is a word in the Chinese language, hence learning English may be an arduous task for the Chinese people. Consequently, people from Non-English speaking nations have to learn English as a second language in addition to their native language. And none of these are valid excuses for not learning English because someone who speaks English has a clear advantage over someone who doesn't speak English.

PASSAGES FOR PRACTICE6. Read the following passage carefully and make notes using suitable abbreviations.

Social media has impacted the world in many ways. Millions of people are using Facebook, Twitter and Instagram worldwide. Such websites have proven to be the best way to connect and communicate with friends and family. These have also become the best tool to keep oneself abreast with latest buzz in every field. These are so convenient that one tends to forget that such tools are to be used very judiciously. One needs to learn to be a responsible social media user. Especially young children must be taught to use social media very carefully. It is the responsibility of the parents and teachers to teach them the proper use of social media.

Facebook started by Mark Zuckerberg is the most used social media tool. Its business depends on persuading people into sharing their personal experiences with public or their known people. Posting pictures and updating status has become an important part of their daily routine. No one is immune to its addictive effect. Periodically looking at their phones for any updates has become a norm for people. Users must be made aware of the fact that sharing personal details and photos can be misused by criminals or anti-social elements. One must understand that every post on Facebook or such sites is not always backed by facts or truth. One must not make friends with unknown persons. Time and effort spent on social media can be used productively. Some people may use social media to spread religious fanaticism or hatred. Social media should be used to help connect with people not to disconnect or disintegrate from mainstream. It should be used to bring harmony and love only.

7. Read the following passage carefully and make notes using suitable abbreviations.

Windows give the character to a house, just as final features reflect the personality of a face. Small changes in style, finish or proportions of windows can destroy the spirit of home. Consider carefully the effect that changes will make to the outside as well as the inside of the building. Until the seventeenth century, most windows were of the four-panel casement type. They opened outwards (or inside) like a door on butt hinges. The particular irregularity of the glass is important, and such windows are ruined by insensitive and mechanical metal casements and phoney lead lights. Thereafter, sash window became more common in Britain and America. Usually, they open vertically, but horizontal-sliding sash windows have a peculiar charm and work well in wide, low frames. Today, we see greater use of glass, but originally windows were busily divided by mullions. The fine art of fenestration seems to have fallen by the wayside. Proper leaded lights, decorative Georgian fan-lights, and the dignified proportions conveyed by a satisfying geometry of wooden mullions seem to be a thing of the past. Replacing old windows with modern versions is almost always to the detriment of the house. Unfortunately, almost all double-glazing is hideous and metal-frame windows are heinous, terrible crimes committed in the name of fuss-free windows. And blocking in a window or a glazed door can have a quite disproportionate effect on the light within—look closely at the path of light shed by the glazing in question before you decide to remove it.

8. Read the following passage carefully and make notes using suitable abbreviations.

In negotiation, tactics and strategy are many a time mixed up. In simple words, tactics means negotiating small scale and short term interim issues whereas strategy is about large-scale, long term and final outcomes. For example, the strategic decisions about a journey will be about where the journey is from and to, the mode of travel – car, train, plane or boat—and when the journey takes place. On the other hand, from a tactical point of view, you would think of route and the terrain, the kind of traffic and other details regarding the nature of interaction with different people enroute this journey. So in negotiations, strategically you are more focused on the outcomes of your journey and tactically you think how to react to a situation or an action. To be a successful negotiator, you need to take into account both these factors. We must choose them with care and with due regard for the outcome that we yearn for. Also, they must be very effectively used. Having common interests with the negotiator will be an added advantage while making a negotiation. Such strategy leads to mutually beneficial agreements that can result in greatly satisfying the needs of all parties. Such a strategy will require a high level of trust and a willingness to share ideas and make adjustments.

9. Read the following passage carefully and make notes using suitable abbreviations.

Swami Vivekanand wrote: We say, “Newton discovered Gravitation.” Was it sitting anywhere in a corner waiting for him? It was in his mind. The time came and he found it out. All the knowledge that the world has ever received in comes from the mind. The infinite library of the universe is in your own mind. The external world is only the suggestion, the occasion which sets you to study your own mind. No one was ever really taught by any one. Each of us has to teach himself. The external teacher offers only the suggestion which rouses the internal teacher to work to understand things. You cannot teach a child any more that you can grow a plant. The plant develops its own nature. The child also teaches himself. But you can help him to go forward in his own way. Parents are constantly taxing their children to read and work, telling them that they will never learn anything and calling them fools and so forth; they later do actually turn out to be so in many cases. If you speak kind words to them and encourage them, they are bound to improve in time.

10. Read the following passage carefully and make notes using suitable abbreviations.

The energy conservation in street lighting is a new concept. But various technologies applied to achieve the goals are not new. It has been adopted and tested in various industrial and medical applications from decades. So, these technologies are trustworthy, when adopted at street lighting energy conservation. This will yield results in conserving the electrical energy. However, when such technologies are applied in public domain, the measurement and verification procedures should be strong and should be in place before implementing such projects. In case of energy efficiency projects in Karnataka, there was no baseline of energy consumption. As a result, it has become very difficult to realize the savings on records. So, without baseline reference, crystalline realization of Energy Savings is impossible. These projects were implemented for a portion of the entire town/city. The maximum area covered under the project is about 20% of the total city lamp population. Under such circumstances, it is difficult to bifurcate and analyses the bills. Moreover, billing pattern from electricity companies to the municipalities is very erratic and needs lots modifications.

LETTER WRITING

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Explain the purpose of Letter Writing.
- * Write different types of letters like
 - * Personal letters
 - * Social letters
 - * Official letters
 - * Business letters
 - * Applications
 - * Letters to the Editors

Letter writing is an art. Private and friendly letters should be a conversation on paper. They are the most important means of written communication between persons who are far away from each other. Letter writing is silent and exact talking through paper, pen and post.

Every literate person should know how to write a clear and effective letter. Letters may be intimate, formal and personal in nature. A good letter must be simple, but impressive. It should be written in clear handwriting. In the words of Charles Lamb, “A letter writer must be respectful to superiors, courteous to inferiors, familiar to friends, affectionate to relatives, simple to children, tender and sympathetic in condolences, lively and joyous in congratulations, forceful and impressive in weighty matters and easy and sprightly on lighter topics. A letter is a permanent record of communication that we can always refer to later. It reflects the personality of the writer. We must nurture the art of writing letters as it can be a very effective tool for fostering lasting relations and leaving good impression on other people as well as organisations.

We can broadly classify letters as below :

- 1. Formal Letters : Business/Official letters/Circulars/Orders/Letters of Public Interests/Enquiries/Letters to the editor.

There are certain common features of all types of letters. Every Letter in general includes these parts :

The address is written on the top left hand corner, followed by the date as October 11, 20... and not as 11/10/2017. The whole thing should be arranged in a manner which is pleasing to the eyes. Each line should be just below the first. The address and date should be written as below :

110, Paltan Bazaar

Dehradun

October 11,20....

- 2. The Salutation/Greetings : It is the complimentary term used to start a letter. It is written on the left side of the page, below the address. The form of salutation depends on the intimacy or relationship between the writer and the person for whom it is written.

- 3. Body of the Letter : It is the most important part of the letter and should be written very carefully. It contains the main subject matter. The writer should think what he needs to communicate and arrange his thoughts in a proper order.

He should write in short and simple sentences. Difficult words should be avoided. He should divide the main message of the letter into paragraphs. A good letter must not end abruptly.

- 4. Subscriptions/Courteous leave taking : For a letter to have an effective ending, certain form of leave taking is important. This is written after the last line of the letter. The form of subscription will depend on the salutation used before the beginning of the letter.

- 5. Signatures : The signature and the name of the writer is written below the subscription.

Yours sincerely

P. K. Verma

A lady generally writes her full name before her surname, so :

Subject: Problem of Eve Teasing

Through the columns of your newspaper, I would like to share my views about the problem of eve-teasing in the public transport and at public places. It has been on the increase for quite some time now. The girls are facing a lot of awkward moments when they travel in the local train as well as buses for going to school/ college. Groups of young men hang around these places. They pass lewd comments on the girls. They generally stand in the corners and on the roadside near the girls' colleges. They are not even students; some of them are anti-social elements. They can be seen roaming freely at the bus stops and railway station. Many times, they get too close to the girls. They have no fear of law as some of them belong to influential families. Some of the parents are hesitant to send their daughters to school and college because of such hooligans moving freely in the city areas. This is a serious challenge to the authorities as well. The other day, one person was badly beaten by these ruffians when he objected to their actions. General public is scared of them now. Some immediate steps need to be taken by the law enforcement agencies. Even civil society organizations need to put pressure on their patrons to draw a line of civil behaviour for these unruly youngsters.

SOME IMPORTANT LETTERS

FORMAL LETTERS

1. Imagine you are Himalaya. Write a letter to the Deputy Commissioner of your district, making out a case for the opening of a dispensary in your area.

The Deputy Commissioner

Ludhiana

Subject : Setting up a dispensary

Sir

We, the residents of Village Tihara, Tehsil Jagraon, wish to draw your attention for your favourable and sympathetic consideration towards an important social need of the residents of this area.

Our village is located in the far flung area of district Ludhiana. It is approximately 12 kilometers from the nearest tehsil headquarters, i.e., Jagraon. It has one secondary school, one middle school each for boys as well as girls, and a sub post office. It has a population of over eleven thousand persons. But sadly, there is no dispensary in this village or any village around for six kilometers. The residents have to undergo much trouble and inconvenience every time there is any medical emergency. They have to take their patients all the way to Civil Hospital in Jagraon. Serious patients have to be taken to Government Hospital, Ludhiana.

During the rainy season, things become even worse. Unqualified and untrained doctors take full advantage of it and play havoc with the lives of the poor rural folks. Many old people, pregnant women and children die due to lack of proper medical help. There is an immediate danger of a break out of a disease like Dengue or Malaria.

We, therefore, request you to open a dispensary in our village with immediate effect. The villagers are willing to provide the district administration with a suitable piece of land for the dispensary building.

We hope you will consider our request sympathetically and take appropriate action at the earliest.

Yours faithfully
Himalaya

The Commissioner
Municipal Corporation
Moga

Subject : Complaint against insanitary conditions.

Sir

I would like to draw your attention towards the poor condition of the drainage system of the city. Most of the times the drains are choked. It seems that the sanitary inspectors of the municipal corporation are paying little attention to the sanitary conditions of the city roads and drains. This was exposed even during the pre-monsoon showers recently, when the choked drains proved the claims of the civic authorities hollow.

Encroachers like vendors and influential people have only added to the misery of the commoners by playing havoc with the drainage system of the city. There are pits and pot-holes on many important roads of the city.

The sweeping arrangements are extremely poor. Heaps of garbage are seen lying in the residential areas. Even public places like parks and market areas are surrounded by filth and rubbish. Water stagnation may lead to breeding of flies and mosquitoes. Such a situation may lead to outbreak of an epidemic.

I must plead that this is high time to set things right. These choked drains must be cleaned immediately and pot holed roads must be repaired on priority. If prompt action is not taken, the whole town will soon fall prey to serious health crisis.

Thanking you in anticipation.

Yours faithfully

Subject : The evil of begging.

Sir

Through the columns of your esteemed newspaper, I would like to draw the attention of the general public and civil authorities towards the menace of street begging on our city roads and in public places. I must highlight the fact that there is hardly a road or a crossing in the city where a traveller or a city goer doesn't come across a beggar.

Begging presents a very pathetic sight of a society. It is a big nuisance. It has attained the status of a profession among the slum dwellers and poor people. Most of the beggars are healthy persons. They pose to be disabled or sick to earn sympathy of the innocent citizens. They have given up the habit of working like common people. They find begging an easier option to hard, physically demanding jobs. There are reports that many of these beggars are involved in anti-social activities too. They have also encroached many crucial corners in tourist places or public places. Such elements have spoiled the image of India. It is a disturbing sight to see beggars on each traffic light of the city.

The Social Welfare Department should create charitable homes for the genuinely needy or physically handicapped beggars. Other healthy and able bodied beggars should be sent to the reform homes. They should be trained in suitable vocations to earn a respectable living.

We, as a society, must rise above our biases to help these ignored sections. Every citizen must take care not to encourage the evil of begging by giving easy money to the lazy and the cheats. We must resolve to generate awareness among all the sections of the society to create better opportunities for a respectable earning for these beggars.

Hope the government takes appropriate action to check the spread of this evil in our society.

Yours faithfully

Shiva

Subject : Use of unfair means in the examination.

Sir

I would like to use the columns of your newspaper to share my views about the growing use of unfair means in the examinations these days. This is a very sad situation as we see the young students engaged in such mean practices. The problem of copying has become so prevalent that students find it an easy way to success. Even some teachers and many parents are found involved in this dirty act. The menace of copying has assumed serious proportions. Many private coaching centres and touts exploit the weaknesses in the examination system. They mislead the students to earn more money. Many anti-social elements also jump in the fray. Many cases of impersonation are often found during the exams.

Cheating in the examinations is a problem. It not only harms the students but also produces under prepared youngsters for the challenges of the real world. We must ensure that it is checked at the earliest if our students have to compete with the best in the world. We need a very sincere and well planned effort to control this evil practice. It must be dealt with as much seriousness as possible. Students, teachers, parents and all the concerned sections of the society must be involved to spread awareness about the ill effects of such unfair practices. Help may be taken from the police, if required.

Please remember, this problem needs urgent solution. Let's join hands to eradicate this unfair practice.

Thanking You

Yours faithfully

I would like to bring to your notice the carelessness of the postman of my area, Mr. Swarn Singh. He has been quite irregular in the recent past. He skips two to three days in a week.

Only last week, I was to receive an interview letter for a job. It was to be delivered by last Friday but he delivered it to me this Wednesday. Because of his carelessness, I could not attend the interview and it deprived me of a good job. He remains absent from duty without any prior leave. My dear Uncle

I am greatly pleased to receive your special gift on my 17th birthday. I was expecting you to join us in the celebrations. I kept waiting for you till evening. And then I received the courier containing the gift sent by you. All the members missed your presence.

In the evening, there was a small party at home for my near and dear ones. We all enjoyed the evening together. Dad gave me a beautiful laptop that I have been eyeing to get for some time. However, the beautiful watch that you sent me has a special significance for me. I had been wanting to change my watch for some time now. This new watch has many latest features. It tells not only the correct time but also has many other important features such as indicating the pulse rate and blood pressure. Its stopwatch feature will also be of great help to me for my preparations as an athlete. With this, I shall be able to monitor my timings very precisely.

Once again, I thank you for your wonderful gift, which shall always remind me of you. Please convey my regards to Seema aunty and love to my younger cousins.

My dear Ajitabh

I received a letter from your school about your results in the terminal exams and your overall performance. I must compliment you for your excellent scores in the academic subjects. At the same time what worried me more was that your performance in the sports and co-curricular activities is not up to the mark. I think you need to realise that the aim of good education is to develop a sound mind in a sound body.

I would like to share my views about the importance of good health and the role of sports in that. You should take part in the school games regularly. You must spend some time in the playground every day. Games play a great role in making a person healthy and fit. Physical exercise is a panacea for most human ailments. Games teach us discipline, team spirit and co-operation. These characteristics make a person strong and lead him to success in every field. Remember the adage, 'Health is wealth'. Games hardly cost us anything but the gains are tremendous.

I would like to quote the Duke of Wellington, who said, 'The Battle of Waterloo was won on the playfields of Eton and Harrow schools.' So dear brother, always give equal importance to studies as well as to physical activities. Take part in games and have a healthy body.

Please convey my regards to elders and love to younger ones.

Your loving brother
Amitabh

Dear Sanjeev

It is very sad to learn about the untimely death of your father. He has always been so fit that I could never think of him to suffer from a heart attack. He seemed so happy and full of life when I recently met him at your place. I can't imagine that he is no more amongst us. This is an irreparable loss and there is nothing that can make up for it. His untimely death has created a vacuum difficult to be filled.

It is a moment of great grief and I am with you in these difficult times. Please accept my sincerest condolences on your bereavement. There are no words to express my deep anguish and sorrow at this moment.

To be deprived of such a noble soul as your father, is a great loss. But then what is destined, must happen. Death is the lot of man. There is no escape from it. We have to submit to the will of God. At this juncture, I would like you to follow in the footsteps of your noble-souled father.

Please convey my deepest sorrow to your respected mother in this moment of profound grief.

Try to comfort your younger brother and sister. My father and I will come to you in a day or two.

Yours sincerely

Manjit

My dear Mummy

I am pleased to receive your letter on 7 September, 2017. I am sorry that I could not write earlier as I was settling down in the hostel. I promise that henceforth I will write you a letter every week.

I assure you that everything is fine here. I would share something about my life at my hostel. First of all, the food served in our hostel is the best in any hostel on the campus. Although the taste is different, but I am hopeful of getting used to it soon.

Ours is a very big campus. It has very big lawns and parks. There are more than a thousand students in our college. Both boys and girls study in our college. The faculty members in our college are well versed with their subjects. They are not only masters of their subjects but also very keen to share their expertise with the students. They are also very caring. In the hostel too, our warden, Mrs. Grewal is a mother like personality. She takes personal interest to make all hostellers feel at home.

The college hostel has given us a lot of freedom. We are very happy here. In the evening, we can play different games in the playground. It helps us to utilise our free time in a very productive manner. I would like to make maximum use of these facilities to achieve a balanced personality.

Regards to elders at home and love to Munki and Bebo.

Sir

With due respect I would like to bring to your kind notice that I belong to a very poor family comprising of six members. My father is the only earning member. He is working as a daily wager in a nearby saw mill. His monthly income is not more than five thousand rupees a month. It is very difficult to make both ends meet with this meagre income. My three siblings are also studying in different classes. My father's income is insufficient to pay our school fees.

I am a student of class XI-A, of your institution. I am very keen to follow my higher studies. I secured eighty percent marks in Matriculation Examination last year. Now I want to join Science stream and become an engineer. But my parents are unable to bear the expenses of my further studies. It is, therefore, requested that I may please be exempted from school fee and granted some financial aid from the Students' Aid fund to meet the expenditure of further studies. I assure you that I will work hard to make the school proud with my performance and set a good example for other students as well.

Sir

I am a student of 12th class of your school. I have been told by my class teacher that I have fallen short of lectures. I must share with you that I have been a regular student since the beginning of the session. I am not in the habit of skipping any classes. But unfortunately, my mother fell sick in the month of November. She was bed ridden for almost six weeks. My father is serving in the Indian Army as a Subedar. He could not get leave to look after my mother. And my siblings are too young to fulfil this duty. So, I had to frequently miss my classes during this period. So, I fell short of lectures.

It was never my intention to ignore my studies. Now, my mother's health has improved and I shall be regular in studies. I am working very hard to complete the curriculum I missed and I assure you that I shall be able to make the loss of time very soon. I have been a good student all these years. I have also won the school laurels in state level debate competitions. Now also I am working hard to achieve good marks in the examination. In the light of this, I request you to condone the shortage of my lectures. I shall be highly thankful to you.

Thanking you

Subject : Changes in the school library.

Sir

I am a student of class XI-A of your school. I have been an avid reader of good books. I went to our school library yesterday. The library is the soul and spirit of any school. It should cater to the needs and interests of the school students. But I am saddened to see the state of our school library.

In our library, there is no catalogue of books. The books are lying in a haphazard manner. Students find it very difficult to locate any book. They have to look for a book at different sections. There are no magazines on General Knowledge and Sports. The reading room is very small.

I have a few suggestions to make our school library more useful and an attractive place. There should be a proper catalogue of books in the reception area itself. All the books should be arranged alphabetically. The books should be well arranged and displayed properly. The books should be placed section wise-literature, non-fiction, science, commerce, sports etc. There should be variety of good magazines on sports, health, finance and general knowledge available for students in the reading rooms.

All these steps would make a visit to the library a meaningful and useful experience.

Thanking you

E-MAIL WRITING

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Learn and Explain features of E-mail writing
- * Write different types of E-mails as a means of communication

E-mail, or Electronic Mail is the mode of exchanging digital messages across the Internet or other computer networks. It is the quickest way to communicate in writing. It has gained preference over the traditional means of communication, i.e., letter writing. It has become so popular that almost every business or internet user is using it as the preferred means of communication. Just like Letter writing, you can write formal as well as informal e-mails. Formal e-mails are used in government as well as private offices to communicate with others. While people use informal e-mails to communicate with their friends, family members, relatives or acquaintances. The main advantage of the e-mail over the ‘snail-mail’ letters is that it is quick and direct. An e-mail is sent for a particular purpose and a fast response or an immediate action is expected. To be effective as a means of communication, it is important that an e-mail, whether formal or informal, has a proper, clear and logical structure.

Some of the advantages of an e-mail over other modes of communication are as follows:

1. Since the e-mail gets delivered directly to the recipient’s mailbox irrespective of his availability, he/she will be able to look at it as soon as he opens his mailbox.
2. E-mail can be sent to the recipient in any corner of the world at the cost of local call.

Some of the do's and don'ts that we must keep in mind while writing an e-mail are as follows :

Do's	Don'ts
Use appropriate salutations.	Write about irrelevant issues.
Proof read before pressing the 'send' button.	Write too long sentences.
E-mail should be brief and concise.	Use italics.
Place the most important information first.	Use exclamation marks.
Write a meaningful and informative subject line	Use capital letters to write whole words in e-mails, this is considered as shouting.
Use numbers and bullets to make the message clearer.	Use different fonts (the recipient's computer may not be compatible)
Have your default signature at the end of the E-mail. It should include your name, designation, (may include address and phone number in case of formal e-mail).	Use incomprehensible abbreviations, acronyms and smileys.
Write short sentences, separate paragraphs and use simple grammar and language.	Give personal information that you don't want someone else to know.

PRECIS WRITING

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Describe various rules to be applied while writing Precis
- * Explain the process of Precis writing and Purpose
- * Practice Precis writing of a Passage

A 'Precis', in simple words, is a summary or a brief of a passage. It is like a miniature form of a big portrait. It should retain the essence of the main passage. It should reflect the spirit of what the writer has given in the original passage. The aim of the 'Precis writing' is to convey the gist of the message in one's own words but it must not change the author's views or opinion. It should present the ideas in a logical manner with a clarity of thought. One needs to be precise and to the point in one's approach.

Some of the main features of a good 'Precis' are:

- a. It should retain the essence of the original passage.
- b. It should be clear, brief and precise.
- c. It should present the ideas in a sequence as given by the author and there should be coherence of ideas.
- d. It should not look as an abstract of the original.

Steps in Precis writing :

1. Firstly, read the passage carefully.
2. Underline/ highlight the main ideas of the passage.
3. Compress the ideas in a brief form while retaining the important details.
4. Identify the central idea.
5. Prepare a draft.

6. Give a second reading to ensure that you don't miss any important link and remove any gaps.
7. Avoid any explanations, superfluous examples or quotations.
8. Write in third person using indirect speech and retain the tense of the original passage.
9. Avoid abbreviations.
10. Calculate the total number of words and write 'Precis' in approximately one third of the total words.
11. Provide an appropriate title to your Precis.

SOLVED EXAMPLES

1. Write a Precis of the following paragraph in your own words :

People in this modern materialistic world are prone to suffer from stress, emotional imbalance, anxiety, frustration and anger. It leads to many physical ailments, disturbed relationships and road rage. Many broken homes, accidents and suicides are due to this mental turmoil. The only panacea for this is 'meditation'. A simple description of meditation is to sit silently with closed eyes and focus on breathing. It may or may not be accompanied by music. It helps one to connect with deep inner self and raises the level of consciousness. The first effort may not be perfect but with regular practice, one masters the technique. Then the results start unfolding! It leads to peace of mind, better concentration, clarity of thought and complete relaxation. The situations do not change but it changes our reactions and attitude to these. One learns to be calm and grounded in all circumstances and surrender to divine control. Gratitude takes the place of complaints and love replaces resentments. It is then that circumstances begin to change. Life is a beautiful gift of God but one becomes thankful for it only after practising meditation. The result is a calm and serene individual.

SOLUTION :

TITLE : ADVANTAGES OF MEDITATION

Meditation is a process of concentration on your breathing and connecting to your inner-self. It leads to a calm mind, freedom from stress and anxiety. Many problems in the modern world are solved as a result of it. A person becomes emotionally stable and his attitude towards life becomes more of gratitude and love rather than complaints and resentment. The technique can be mastered with regular practice.

2. Write a Precis of the following paragraph in your own words :

Chandigarh is a city of attractions for tourists. One of the favourite places of all the tourists is the Sculpture Garden near Sukhna Lake which is spread over an area of 40 acres. After the name of its creator, it is named Nek Chand's Rock Garden. Nek Chand started creating it secretly in his spare time in 1957. He spent first seven years mostly in collecting the waste material on his bicycle and recycling it in a hut made in the jungle. The garden was developed secretly by him, but it was accidentally discovered by the authorities in 1975. It was opened for public view in 1976. Every day, it is visited by hundreds of tourists, who are mesmerized by the beautiful sculptures of soldiers, dancing women, animals, birds and cascading water-falls. A characteristic feature of the Rock Garden is that all the sculptures are made of stone, recycled ceramics, industrial waste, broken household items like crockery, bangles, tubes, cycle-parts, tiles and toilet fixtures etc. Another interesting feature is that one has to pass through many doorways, archways and concrete lanes leading to courtyards and chambers. Nek Chand planned the layout of the garden based on the fantasy of a lost kingdom. Nowhere in the world do we see such a beauty created out of waste.

He started working on it in 1957 and it was opened to public in 1976. He used recycled industrial and home waste to create the sculptures of different species including humans. The fast beats and the peppy music make everyone dance to the tunes. Punjabis are fun loving, emotional and very religious people. They celebrate their festivals and traditions with a lot of spirit. 1. Write a Precis of the following paragraph in your own words :

Women, who constitute half of the human population, are encountered with many challenges. Female foeticide is, perhaps, one of the worst forms of violence against the women, where a woman is denied her most basic and fundamental rights i.e. 'The Right to Life'. Though there is no particular definition of foeticide provided by the code of criminal procedure but the following definition will clear your concept; 'Female foeticide' is the killing of a healthy female foetus in order to get rid of a female child by means of medical termination of Pregnancy (MTP) or Abortion. Female foeticide is considered a criminal offence in India. Abortion is lawful only when the doctor believes that the continuance of the pregnancy may pose a direct threat to the life or the health of the mother or the unborn child. No doubt, if this practice continues, it will disturb the social balance. For a healthy society, the male or female gender ratio must remain at a balanced level. The alarming rate of female foeticide is a cause of great concern, as the number of girls born is decreasing drastically in several sections of our society, thus, exposing females to more exploitation and violence. This state of affairs, if not corrected, will have a disastrous impact on the future generations of our society.

2. Write a Precis of the following paragraph in your own words :

‘Safe drinking water’ is one of the basic needs and without its availability in adequate quantity and quality, there could be serious impact on human and animal health. The Department of Drinking Water and Sanitation released the Standard Operating Procedures (SOP) for drinking water supply and sanitation services during natural hazards. Drought could lead to scarcity of water due to depletion of water table and/or drying up of water sources. Natural hazards such as floods, tsunami, avalanche, landslide or hailstorm could result in wash off/damage of water supply assets, thus resulting in disruption of supply of safe drinking water. Therefore, in any type of crisis, proper management of drinking water supply to the affected people on an “immediate basis” is an essential requirement. Maintaining environmental sanitation and individual hygiene are also equally important to reduce or eliminate chances of disease of prevalence/outbreak of epidemics. The SOP manual has been prepared, in order to assist everyone in the Rural Water and Sanitation Department, State Water & Sanitation Mission, District Water and Sanitation Mission, NGO’s and the community, whether at the National, State, District or at other levels. It also indicates actions to be taken at various levels. 5. Write a Precis of the following paragraph in your own words :

Time Management is the process of organizing and planning the division of time between specific activities. Good time management enables you to work smarter than harder, so that you get more output with less input and in shorter duration. Inability to manage one's time well, leads to decrease in productivity and also causes stress. On the other hand, if one manages one's time properly, one can achieve important career and life goals with a greater quality of work. This leads to higher productivity and greater professional reputation. A 24-hour day becomes more productive for good time managers, while for others it may turn out to be missed deadlines only. To get the maximum out of a 24 hour day, one must learn how to prioritise between the urgent and the important. One must also avoid distractions, e.g. looking for help even before deciding on the task or assigning duties, checking e-mails and Facebook is neither urgent nor important. One can categorise every work under 'Do it now', 'Do it later' or 'Don't do it at all' priority. Every individual has a particular best time of the day when a person feels full of energy and life, so one should schedule one's most important and challenging work for that period. Avoid multi-tasking, rather go for similar tasks consecutively to achieve perfection. This will lead to saving time for other tasks. Stay calm and keep your work place free of clutter. Take a break and review what has been done and revise the plan if required. Keep moving forward step by step.

6. Write a Precis of the following passage and give it a suitable title.

A delicate balance exists between tropical grasslands and tropical forests, with slight changes in climate leading to the advance of one type of habitat and the retreat of the other. Broadly speaking, grasslands occur in drier regions where the limited water supply cannot support a full canopy of trees. Grass is more resistant both to low levels of moisture throughout the year and the intense periods of drought. It is the natural form of vegetation in areas of low rainfall and in places where water drains rapidly through sandy soil. Where gradual changes in climate between adjoining areas occur, there may also be a gradual change in habitat. On the borders of a forest, where the climate starts to become less humid, the tree canopy opens up, grass spreads between the trunks and the woodland savannah appears. Continuing onto drier areas, the trees are scattered and shrink to shrub size, and in still drier areas grass dominates the landscape. In a semi-arid climate, the grasses will be shorter and the vegetation will be thin on the ground. Finally, when the climate becomes truly arid with minimal levels of rainfall, grassland eventually turns to desert.

Tension and headaches are the most common type and are caused by muscle contractions or an imbalance of natural chemicals in the brain. The pain causes a band like pressure around the head and may be accompanied by a sense of tightness in the head, neck and the shoulder muscles. They often begin in the afternoon or evening and produce a steady pain. Prevention is the best approach; relaxation techniques, such as bio-feedback, massage, meditation and visualization, work for many. Another recommendation is to eliminate all foods and drugs that contain caffeine from the diet, which can increase tension and anxiety; thus, contributing to headaches. Headaches may also be due to sinusitis, an inflammation of the lining of the sinus cavities. This causes a deep, dull ache around the eyes and sometimes in the forehead and ears. A good diagnostic clue is that the pain tends to worsen when you bend over.

Poor women folk of the village wait for the night; until darkness descends, so that they can go out to defaecate. What bodily torture they must be feeling, how many diseases that act might engender them? Can’t we just make arrangements for toilets for the dignity of our mothers and sisters?” Modi also spoke of the need for toilets in schools during the 2014 Jammu and Kashmir state elections campaign. ‘Swachh Sarvekshan 2017’

9. Write a Precis of the following passage and give it a suitable title.

The modern man is forever busy meeting deadlines, keeping appointments and living life. He has no time for himself. In his hurried routine, he prefers to eat junk or fast food which is prepared and consumed instantly. The term ‘Junk food’ was coined by Micheal F. Jacobson in 1972. Junk food contains less minerals, vitamins and proteins, so it does no good to the body as it lacks nutritional value. Fast food chains are popular worldwide. They serve food which is saturated in fats and sugar. These foods are gaining popularity in small towns also. School /college canteens as well as corner shops are stacked with such items—french fries, burgers, pizzas, chips, noodles etc. These are available off the shelf too to pick on the go. Fast food is served at birthday parties and other social functions. People forget that such foods are major source of obesity, hormonal imbalance, high blood pressure, diabetes etc. It contains little fibre, so it does not provide enough nutrition and leads to chronic constipation resulting in other diseases. School and college tuck-shops should sell fresh fruits and juices, sprouts and salads. Milk and butter milk should replace aerated drinks, as these things have higher nutritional value than burgers, chips and noodles.

12 . Write a Precis of the following passage and give it a suitable title.

For a religion to be effective, enthusiasm is necessary. At the same time, we must try to avoid the danger of multiplying of creeds. We avoid that by being a non-sectarian sect, having all the advantages of a sect and the broadness of a universal religion. God, though everywhere, can be known to us in and through human character. No character was ever so perfect as Rama Krishna's and that should be the center round which we ought to rally; at the same time allowing everybody to regard him in his own light, either as God, saviour, teacher, model, a great man just as he pleases. We preach neither social equality but that every being has same rights, and insist upon freedom of thought and action in every way. We reject none, neither theist, nor pantheist, monist, polytheist, agnostic, nor atheist; the only condition of being a disciple is modelling a character, at once the broadest and the most intense. Nor do we insist upon particular codes of morality as to conduct, character, eating and drinking, except so as far as it injures others.

THE ART OF TRANSLATIONLearning
Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * use English language as a means of communication in bilingual method.
- * learn correct structural formation of sentences in English .

Translation is the communication of meaning of a source language text by means of an equivalent target language. In simple words, it is an act, a process of rendering meaning from one language into another. It is an art as well as a skill. It is different thing for different people; for some it is only a text; for others it may be an activity. According to Anthony Pym, “Translation is a text from the perspective of external knowledge, but an activity from the perspective of internal knowledge.” It can be mastered through regular practice. To master this art, it is important to keep in mind that translation involves understanding cultural background of the language and rules of grammar. “When we translate Punjabi/Hindi into English, we must remember that no two languages express the same thing in the same manner. So we must learn about the differences in structural formation of sentences in these languages.

UNSEEN COMPREHENSION

Learning Objectives

After the completion of this chapter, the learner will be able to :

- * Describe the importance of reading and comprehension
 - * Learn different steps of reading and comprehension
 - * Practice reading and comprehension of unseen passages

According to the dictionary, the word ‘comprehension’ means ‘understanding’. For young students or learners, comprehension involves not only constructing meaning from reading traditional material in print; it also involves listening to others read or speak. It means the understanding and interpretation of what they read or hear and get meaning from written or spoken language. It is the ability to accurately understand written or spoken material. For this, children need to be able to decode what they read and make connection between what they read and what they already know and also think deeply what they have read.

In our modern, text-driven world, the ability to understand, to synthesize, to take meaning from text and apply it to real life situations is critical. This depth of reading ability is not only important in any classroom for academic success but also for coping with day-to-day existence. Reading comprehension is a tool for life. Reading is an active and mentally interactive process. It develops over time. It is important to emphasize text comprehension from the beginning rather than waiting until the students have mastered the basics of reading.

A comprehension passage is a tool to test the understanding ability of the students. In order to do well in this question, you need to form good reading habits. In a comprehension exercise, you may be asked many types of questions so as to get your responses. Some of these are given below:

In the eighteenth century, one of the first modern economists, Adam Smith thought that the whole annual produce of the land and labour of every country provides revenue to three different orders of people; those who live by rent, those who live by wages and those who live by profit. Each successive stage of the industrial revolution, however, made the social structure more complicated.

Many intermediate groups grew up during the nineteenth century, between the upper middle class and the working class. There are small scale industrialists as well as the large ones, small shopkeepers and tradesmen, officials and salaried employees, skilled and unskilled workers and professionals, such as doctors and teachers. Farmers and peasants continue in all countries as independent groups.

In spite of this development, one of the most famous writers on social class in the nineteenth century, Karl Marx thought that there was tendency for society to split into huge class camps, the capitalists and the workers. Influential as Marx's theory of social class was, it was over-simplified. The social make-up of modern societies is much more complex than he suggested.

After his death, the scientists from London and Cambridge examined DNA from fragments of Dalton's eyes preserved at his request by the Manchester Literary and Philosophical Society, and have shown that he lacked the gene for making green pigment in the retina.

Less obviously, but just as significant, are the social reasons behind the modern urge to travel. Today, cheap airfares and package holidays have made foreign travel fashionable for many, especially for those who spend their lives working in crowded cities and in industry. Travel to foreign countries is now within the reach of the families who only thirty years ago would have hardly dreamt of such a thing. Indeed, for some, it has become a matter of personal pride to boast of. The more the time spent abroad, and the more glamorous and far-flung the destination, the better. Indians are now looking beyond the beaches of Goa to Miami beaches or to the mountains of Alps or the Niagara Falls or even the safaris of Africa for a new and vastly different experience. V. Read the following passage and answer the questions given below:

There are in our country, as in other countries of the world, thousands of differently abled persons, such as those who are blind or deaf and dumb. In some cases, these persons may have been born blind or deaf, while in others, they may have gone blind or deaf as a result of some illness or accident.

You sometimes, hear people say of such handicapped persons: "It is the work of fate" or "It is the will of God." Some even say, "They suffer the fruits of their own actions in the past." Even the parents of differently abled children often express such feelings and opinions, and they scarcely ever think of how they can help these unfortunate ones. This certainly is not the way to look at the problems of the differently abled.

Whatever may be the cause of their suffering, we have got to treat the differently abled with sympathy and understanding. In many instances, physically challenged children suffer from neglect and are left to themselves in their homes. This makes their life extremely sad and lonely. Our first duty is to make these children happier and less lonely by engaging them in different activities suitable for them. Secondly, we have got to educate these children and help them to live meaningful lives. We should secure benefits of education for them in schools intended for them. We ought to make them self-reliant by creating suitable employment opportunities for them. They will then have a sense of achievement. We will also feel satisfied that we have done our duty towards them.

1. How should we treat the differently abled children?
 - (a) indifferently
 - (b) with sympathy and understanding
 - (c) ignore their loneliness
 - (d) neglect them
2. According to the author, what is our first duty towards differently abled children?
 - (a) to make them homeless
 - (b) to make them healthy

 - (d) to make them run fast

VI. Read the following passage and answer the questions given below:

In a reversal of the norm elsewhere, in India, policymakers and economists have become optimists while bosses do the worrying. The country's Central Bank has predicted that India's economy is likely to grow at a double digit rate during the next 20-30 years. India has the capability with its vast labour and lauded entrepreneurial spirit. But the private sector, which is supposed to do the heavy lifting that turns India from the tenth largest economy to the third largest by 2030, has become fed up.

Business people often crib about India's problems but their irritation this time has a nervous edge. In the first quarter of 2011, the GDP grew at an annual rate of 7.8 percent; in 2015-17 it managed 6-7 percent. The economy may be slowing naturally as the low interest rates and public spending that got India through the global crisis have been belatedly withdrawn. At the same time, the surge in inflation caused by exorbitant food prices has spread more widely, casting doubt over whether India can grow at 8-10 percent in the medium term without overheating.

Brain drain, also referred to as human capital flight, is the action of having highly skilled and educated people leaving their country to work abroad. It has actually become one of the serious concerns for the developing nations. While many people believe that immigration is a personal choice that must be understood and respected, others look at this phenomenon from a different perspective. What makes those people leave their country, their own people, should be seriously considered and a distinction between pull and push factors must be made. The pull factors, however, include intellectual freedom and substantial funds for research. Brain drain has negative impact on the economic prospects and competitiveness of sender countries. One night, a man came to our house and told me, "There is a family with eight children. They have not eaten for days." I took some food and went out. When I finally came to the family, I saw the faces of those little children disfigured by hunger. There was no sorrow or sadness in their faces, just the deep pain of hunger. I gave the rice to the mother. She divided it in two and went out, carrying half the rice with her. When she came back, I asked her, "Where did you go?" She gave me this simple answer, "To my neighbour—they are also hungry." I was not surprised because poor people are generous but I was surprised that she knew they were hungry.

Health and hygiene go hand in hand. Health refers to a state of sound mind and physically fit body, free from any form of sickness, disorder or ailment. Hygiene refers to the good practices that prevent disease and lead to good health through cleanliness, proper sewage disposal, balanced and nutritious food, regular exercise, proper sleep, pure and fresh air and supply of safe drinking water. The proverb, 'Health is Wealth' is truly said of all things in the world. Health is the most valuable thing that one can possess.
